Mount Magazine State Park, near Paris, the highest point in Arkansas rises from the Arkansas River Valley to an elevation of 2,753 feet. It offers hang gliding, rappelling, rock climbing, horseback riding, camping and hiking. The mountain's main road contains bicycle lanes and from its eight scenic overlooks visitors can see hundreds of miles of beautiful forested lands and mountains. It is also known for its outstanding butterfly population, boasting 94 of the 126 species found in Arkansas.

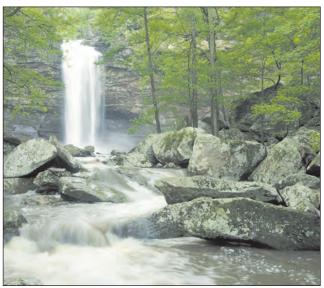

Queen Wilhelmina State Park/Talimena Scenic Byway stretches for 54 miles along crests of the Ouachita Mountains before terminating at Talihina, Oklahoma. The route offers some of the best sightseeing in Arkansas, with numerous vistas from atop some of the highest peaks between the Rocky and Appalachian mountains. Along the route atop Rich Mountain, Arkansas's second highest peak, lies Queen Wilhelmina State Park with a lodge, restaurant, camping, picnic areas and hiking trails. The 192-mile Ouachita National Recreation Trail passes through the park. Ark. 88 near Mena.

National Historic Site Experience the history of this major U.S. Civil Rights landmark at the Museum and Vistor Center across the street from Central High. The first African-American students -- "the Little Rock Nine" -- were admitted to the school in 1957 following a dramatic confrontation between Gov. Orval Faubus, who used the state's National Guard to block desegregation, and President Eisenhower, who sent federal troops to enforce it.

An authentic reproduction of an old water-powered grist mill, this striking structure appears in the opening scene of the classic 1933 film Gone with the Wind and is believed to be the only building remaining from the film. McCain Boulevard and Lakeshore Drive in North Little Rock.

Popular with families and outdoor enthusiasts, Petit Jean State Park offers a restaurant, swimming pools, playgrounds, tennis court, ball field, boating, fishing, campsites, cabins, lodge and gift shop. Scenic views are found throughout more than 20 miles of hiking trails that lead to mountain overlooks, streams, an abundance of unmarred woods, ravines, springs, caves, interesting ecological formations and 95-foot Cedar Falls. The history of the area is evidenced by Native American pictographs on a cave wall and the grave of a French explorer's great love for whom the mountain is named.

Arkansas a prime golfing destination for all levels

By ZOIE CLIFT

Arkansas Department of Parks and Tourism

Arkansas is a great location for golfing at all levels, from beginner to pro. The scenic beauty of the state is a natural complement to the game of golf. The Arkansas Golf Trail was created to showcase the variety of scenic courses across the state and has diverse options for golfers, both residents and visitors alike. The trail is home to 12 public and private courses in 11 locations across Arkansas, and highlights the varied landscape of The Natural State from hardwood forests to mountain views to rolling hills to lakes to the Delta.

Along with the Arkansas Golf Trail, the state has numerous other high-caliber golf courses and the golfing terrain of the state also routinely attracts high-profile events.

This year, a range of prestigious college tournaments are taking place in the state, including the NCAA Golf Championships.

"The courses hosting these events are spectacular," said Brad Kozak, who works on the Arkansas Golf Trail program. "It brings notoriety and a level of prestige to be on the national and international stage with other courses that have hosted these type of events."

The NCAA Division I
Men's and Women's Golf Championships is set to take place at the Blessings Golf Course in Fayetteville, which is home to the University of Arkansas men's and women's golf teams. This is the first time the tournament has been hosted in Arkansas.

"This is arguably one of the largest amateur events in the country and to have both the ladies' and men's championships is a huge deal," said Kozak. "It's a game changer and it is bringing eyeballs to golf in Arkansas." National sports coverage of the event has been slated for all day on the Golf Channel and NBC is also bringing in a coverage team for the event.

The Hot Springs Country Club has also hosted successful college events for years, according to Christina Lecuyer with the Arkansas Golf Trail. The Club, a part of the Arkansas Golf Trail, will host two college events later this year.

Other courses that will be hosting prestigious college events this year include the Texarkana Country Club, which will be the scene of the upcoming 2019 Men's Conference USA Men's Golf Championships. All of the events are open to the public to come and watch. Below are the upcoming dates for these golfing events taking place across the state.

Biking in the Ouachitas

Hot Springs has been rated a bronze-level Ride Center by the International Mountain Bicycling Assocation, IMBA, a designation that highlights communities that offer standout experiences for every style of rider, both on and off the bike. Hot Springs is surrounded by the Ouachita Mountains and has a national park, a thriving arts community and is in the midst of a craft brewery boom. A big draw to the area are the Epic trails close by.

Arkansas is home to five Epic trails in the state and Hot Springs is 30 minutes to an hour away from three of them as well as other trail systems in the area. These include the Womble Trail, which has 37 miles of singletrack through the Ouachita National Forest; the Lake Ouachita Vista Trail, which includes around 45 miles of hiking and mountain biking trails along the southern shore of Lake Ouachita, the largest lake in the state; and 108 miles of the Ouachita National Recreation Trail, a long distance hiking trail through the Ouachita National Forest. This designated section of the route currently holds title as the longest mountain biking trail in the state.

There are also other trails in the area including Cedar Glades Park near downtown Hot Springs. A large-scale trail project is also in the works in Hot Springs called the Northwoods Trails. Nearby, the Iron Mountain trail system in Arkadelphia is located in the foothills of the Ouachitas on the south shore of DeGray Lake.

An overlook on the Buffalo National River trail. The nation's first national river has 95,730 acres with three designated wilderness areas. Rushing whitewater is interspersed among sections of calmer water as the river wends its way 135 miles through the lush green valley that is home to elk, deer, black bear, and other woodland creatures. Tall limestone bluffs in earthy hues of gray, tan and brown are defining features of the Buffalo, one of the few remaining undammed rivers in the lower 48 states. Along its corridor, you'll find canoe and kayak outfitters, campsites, trails, cabin rentals, quiet pools and whitewater rapids, an elk herd, ghost town, zip lines, and historic areas such as the Boxley Valley Historic District, the Parker Hickman Homestead, and the Villines Cabin. There are 100 miles of maintained trails within the river park for hikers, mountain bikers and equestrians. Rock climbers can find great routes for climbing and bouldering. Anglers will find a fish population of over 60 species, including small mouth bass, largemouth bass, Ozark bass, and goggle-eye.

Hiking in Southwest Arkansas

Hiking is an awe inspiring route to experience the beauty of Arkansas. The state's climate allows the pastime year round. The state's diverse topography offers a range of scenic territory to explore, including Southwest Arkansas, home to the Ouachita Mountains. The ridgeline runs predominantly east to west rather than the north to south direction of the Appalachian and Rocky Mountains, a directional trend that gives rise to distinct plant and animal communities.

The Ouachita National Recreation Trail follows this scenic range for more than 220 miles. There are a wealth of hiking options in the region, including routes such as the Lake Ouachita Vista Trail, which has around 45 miles of trails along the southern shore of Lake Ouachita. The route meanders through the Ouachita National Forest with spurs providing lake vistas.

Arkansas Goat Festival returns

Like many good ideas, the Arkansas Goat Festival stemmed from a series of "what ifs" that spiraled into reality. Perryville residents Sarah French and Liz Van Dalsem were casually brainstorming about what kinds of activities to feature in the town's monthly "Saturdays on the Square" gatherings, when French, a goat-lover through and through, had an "a-ha" moment to include a goat parade. Then she thought it would be fun if the goats were in costume...because of course there's going to be a costume contest...right after the obstacle course and the cheese-making demonstrations. And thus, the inaugural goat festival was born. The rural community, home to Heifer Ranch, the educational farm and retreat of Heifer International, responded enthusiastically—as did the rest of the state. While there are a handful of other goat-related festivals in the country, Perryville's appears to be the only one held purely out of a love and appreciation for goats. This year's festival promises to be bigger and better, so mark your calendars for the first Saturday in October.

Several markers and a small cemetery commemorate the location of the World War II Japanese American Internment Camp at Rohwer in Desha County. The camp was established 75 years ago in March 1942.

Rohwer, Jerome served as WWII Japanese-American internment camps

After the United States entered World War II, President Franklin Roosevelt created the War Relocation Authority, creating 10 sites throughout the country to incarcerate Japanese Americans. Rohwer and Jerome were established in March 1942 and served as the War Relocation Authority's easternmost camp sites. The two camps would eventually house nearly 18,000 people. Jerome, located in Drew County, operated the shortest amount of time of any of the 10 camps, from Oct. 6, 1942, to June 30, 1944. All that remains of the camp is a smokestack from the camp's laundry remains. A granite marker commemorates the camp's location. Rohwer is located in Desha County. The camp was opened Sept. 18, 1942, and did not close until Nov. 30, 1945, making it one of the last camps to cease operation. The location has several commemorative markers and a small cemetery. The site is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and has been designated a National Historic Landmark.

Actor and writer George Takei, best known for his role as Lieutenant Hikaru Sulu on the original Star Trek television series, was interned as a young boy with his family at Rohwer. In April 2013, Takei returned to the Arkansas Delta and dedicated the opening of the World War II Japanese American Internment Museum in McGehee, as well as outdoor interpretive exhibits at the Rohwer site. The exhibits include a series of kiosks and wayside panels, with audio components narrated by Takei, and provide a glimpse into the lives of Japanese Americans once interned there.

The World War II Japanese American Internment Museum is located in McGehee's historic train depot at 100 South Railroad St. The museum serves as the Jerome-Rohwer Interpretive and Visitor Center and houses the featured exhibit, "Against Their Will: The Japanese American Experience in World War II Arkansas." For more information, visit the museum's Facebook page here or phone 870-222-9168.

7 stellar camping spots

By ZOIE CLIFT

Arkansas Department of Parks and Tourism

Camping is a great way to enjoy the state's natural beauty. Many opportunities to pitch a tent or pull up a camping trailer can be found throughout the wide range of geographic environments found here. Arkansas is home to mountains, lakes, rivers, forests, prairies and each area provides a portal to enjoying nature and the outdoors. Below is a sample of the many varied camping choices that can be found across the state.

Cove Lake

You'll find this mountain lake along Scenic Ark. 309 in the shadows of Mount Magazine, the state's highest peak and home to a state park of the same name. Cove Lake features swimming, hiking, camping, and fishing in its 160-acres in the Ozark National Forest. There are 28 family-unit campsites, 24 family-unit picnicking sites, restrooms with hot showers, drinking water, and boat launching ramp. Boating and jet skis are allowed on Cove Lake. The lake is home to catfish, bass and perch. It is stocked every other year, although a small amount of catfish are stocked annually. From Paris take Ark. 109/309 south then turn southwest on Ark. 309 and go 9 miles. The roads are negotiable by camping trailers. For more information call 479-963-3076.

Gunner Pool Recreation Area

Stretching along the scenic North Sylamore Creek, campsites are shady and private but have no electrical or water hook-ups at Gunner Pool Recreation Area. Campsites have grills, tables, lantern poles and tent pads. Trailhead access to Sylamore Hiking Trail is located within the campground. Just minutes away is Blanchard Springs Caverns, where you can enjoy guided walking tours or get down in dirty with a wild cave tour adventure. Access is by a steep, winding, dirt road, not recommended for large recreation vehicles. For more information, call 870-269-3228.

Woolly Hollow State Park

Mountain biking at Enders Fault Trail is one of the many activities that can be found at Woolly Hollow State Park.

This state park, around 45 minutes from Little Rock, has 30 updated AAA 50 Amp sites (two accessible) and 10 waterfront tent sites. The new Enders Fault hiking and biking trail will keep campers busy during the day as will a walk around the lake on the scenic Huckleberry trail. Also of note, Lake Bennett was named the best swimming spot in Arkansas by the Weather Channel last year. The park is located at 82 Woolly Hollow Road in Greenbrier. For more information call 501-679-2098 or visit arkansasstateparks.com/woollyhollow.

Lake Sylvia Recreation Area

This picturesque area is home to 27 camping sites (19 electric and 8 tent-only), there are several trails here including access to the Ouachita National Recreation Trail. The Wildcat Mountain Bike trail isn't far nor is Scenic Highway 7. Camping facilities are available on a first-come, first-serve basis from mid-spring to early-fall. To get here, go nine miles south of Perryville on Ark. 9, then west on Ark. 324 for four miles. For more information, contact the Winona Ranger District of the Ouachita National Forest at 501-889-5176.

Beech Point Campground at Mississippi River State Park

Located within Mississippi River State Park and the St. Francis National Forest, Beech Point Campground features 14 sites with full hookups and amenities. The campground forms a peninsula in Bear Creek Lake, a 625-acre man-made lake known for largemouth bass, bluegill, red-ear sunfish and blue and channel catfish. For more details, call 870-295-4040.

Lake Ouachita State Park

Lake Ouachita State Park in Mountain Pine is located on the eastern shore of Lake Ouachita, the largest lake (40,100 acres) in Arkansas. Camping is popular here and the park is currently in the midst of campground renovations. When complete, the total number of campsites available at the park will be 94. Fifty-eight of these are class A sites (which have electrical hook-up and amp service, etc.) and 36 are Class D (Hike-In Site, Tent) sites.

Buffalo National River

Surrounded by the Ouachita National Forest, the park is home to hiking trails like the Caddo Bend Trail and is known nationwide for the largemouth bass fishing opportunities found on the lake. Water activities such as boating, water skiing, scuba diving and kayaking are also popular at the lake. For more details call 501-767-9366 or visit arkansasstateparks.com/lakeouachita.
